DERBY'S STORY CONTINUES

For centuries, Derby has been a place shaped by ingenuity - from the early days of the Derby Silk Mill, one of the world's first factories, to its rise as a powerhouse of rail, aerospace, and engineering innovation. Today, that legacy not only lives on, but continues to evolve, defining Derby as one of the UK's most dynamic centres for advanced manufacturing.

The city is home to Rolls-Royce, a global leader in aerospace engineering whose headquarters in Derby drive world-class research, jet-engine development, and pioneering work in sustainable aviation technologies. The ongoing expansion, including major investments in new manufacturing facilities and the recent landmark £9bn contract with the Ministry of Defence - keeps Derby at the forefront of international engineering excellence.

Derby also retains its historic position as a cornerstone of the UK rail industry. Alstom's rail engineering site, one of Britain's main train-manufacturing centres, continues the city's deep connection to rail innovation, producing high-quality rolling stock and investing in next-generation green transport solutions.

Derby has also been selected as the headquarters of Great British Railways - a new publicly-owned company to oversee the UK's railways.

Just beyond the city centre, Toyota Manufacturing UK further strengthens Derby's modern industrial identity, contributing significantly to the automotive sector and helping underpin a highly skilled regional workforce. Together, these global brands form a vibrant ecosystem that fuels Derby's economic strength and secures its place as a leader in advanced transport manufacturing.

DYNAMIC DERBY

Derby sits at the very heart of the UK, recognised as Great Britain's most central city. It's a place that truly changed the world - home to Lombe's Mill, widely regarded as the first fully mechanised factory, marking the birth of the modern industrial age.

Today, Derby continues that legacy as the UK Capital for Innovation, leading in advanced engineering and tech, and home to global giants such as Rolls-Royce, Toyota and Alstom. It's also where the legendary Rolls-Royce Merlin engine - the power behind the Spitfire - was designed and developed, giving the city an enduring place in aviation history.

Derby remains a uniquely central, world-shaping city, defined by its past innovations and its future ambitions.

Nightingale Quarter by Wavensmere Homes

Set at the centre of the East Midlands, Derby stands alongside Leicester and Nottingham as one of the region's core cities, forming a wider metropolitan area shaped by engineering excellence and global industry. Derby distinguishes itself as an international hub for the aerospace, automotive and rail sectors, home to global giants including Rolls-Royce, Toyota and Alstom - together employing over 20,000 people across the city and its supply chain.

This concentration of world-leading manufacturers places Derby at the heart of the UK's advanced transport technology cluster, building on its long industrial heritage and global reputation for innovation. Its strategic position also offers exceptional reach, with

2.1 MILLION PEOPLE LIVING WITHIN A 45 MINUTE DRIVE TIME

- strengthening its role as a regional and national economic powerhouse.

Derby's unique combination of centrality, high-value industries and internationally significant employers continues to define the city as a driving force in the UK's engineering economy.
